

Century United East “New” academy format for Spring 2014

Century United East will be offering eight one-night academy sessions for the spring of 2014. The format for the sessions will be a little different than in seasons past. This season players will have the opportunity to train with their respective age group teams.

This new training model will give the coaching staff a chance to work more closely with your son or daughter to address their individual technical needs. Players may get the opportunity to play in games at the discretion of the teams coaching staff. This would be to help each team compete in weekend games when full team members may not be available.

This new model is to assimilate the advanced training and team concepts that develop over the course of a player’s development.

If teams are not represented in your son or daughters age group you will still have the opportunity to train with the Century United staff on Wednesday nights at Turner Valley.

If you have any questions about the program please don’t hesitate to contact Brian Shrum, Century United East director. He can be reach at shrummy0001@gmail.com
